

ד"ר בעז שוורץ מנכ"ל דויטשה בנק ישראל

Dr Boaz Schwartz is a managing director at Deutsche Bank, heading Deutsche Bank's diverse range of activities in Israel. Some of the recent transactions which Boaz led include Discount investment acquisition of Cellcom, Saba-Apax-Arkin acquisition of Bezeq, Israel Chemicals on its acquisition of Astaris, Scitex Vision on its acquisition by HP and Karadan group acquisition of Azorim. Dr Schwartz joined Deutsche Bank in 1997 to establish the corporate finance practice in Israel and has over 17 years experience as an investment banker in Israel and the US. His experience at Deutsche Bank over the last eight years includes capital raising, M&A, financing advisory; tax enhanced financing; and general corporate advisory. Prior to joining Deutsche Bank, Dr Schwartz headed a private Israeli investment-banking firm representing Smith Barney in Israel. Dr Schwartz holds a BA and MSc. in Electrical Engineering from the Tel Aviv University, MBA from the Wharton School of The University of Pennsylvania and a PhD. in Finance from University of Chicago.
